Happy Birthday, Sean Diddy Combs! East Hampton's favorite hip-hop mogul turned 46 on November 4. Combs celebrated with a surprise party at New York's Butter Midtown. The event was hosted by Naomi Campbell, Andre Harrell and fellow South Forker L.A. Reid.

Bay Street Theater's current production of John Steinbeck's classic Of Mice and Men features many local actors including Roscoe, a senior dog who lives at the Southampton Animal Shelter. Roscoe is available for adoption.

Speaking of Bay Street Theater, Montauk rocker Nancy Atlas's January "Fireside Sessions" concerts in Sag Harbor will include a return of her special guests electric violinist Randi Fishenfeld (January 2), guitarist Andy Aledort (January 23) and keyboardist Danny Kean (January 30). New to the scene will be drummer Shawn Pelton (January 9) and trombonist Clark Gayton (January 16). Get your tickets while they last—these concerts sell out!

Animal Rescue Fund (ARF) of the Hamptons will receive 10,000 pet meals from Halo, Purely for Pets, thanks to Montauk's Julianne Moore. As an Academy Award nominee earlier this year, Moore was given the donation to pass along to the animal shelter of her choice. ARF will use the gift for their Operation Cat Program, which cares for community cats from Brookhaven Township to Montauk.

Bill Zysblat—business manager for the Rolling Stones, David Bowie and others—is selling his East Quogue home. Zysblat and his wife bought the property, which includes 2.4 beachfront acres on Dune Road, for $6.2 million in 2007. Now boasting a 7,500-square-foot main house, guest cottage and saltwater pool, it is currently listed for $22.95 million. In other real estate news, art collector Adam Lindemann, who recently made headlines when he purchased Andy Warhol's famous estate, is selling his other Montauk property. The 5,000-square-foot house on six acres is listed for $29.5 million.

On the small screen: A new series hosted by Southampton's Barbara Walters premiered on Investigation Discovery last week. The show, Barbara Walters Presents American Scandals, takes an in-depth look at some of the country's most gripping true-crime stories. New episodes air Mondays at 10 p.m. on the ID network. South Fork resident Donny Deutsch premiered his new series, Donny, at the Rainbow Room in New York last Tuesday. Bridgehampton's Christie Brinkley, who makes a (Continued on page 28)

DOWN IN THE TUBE

Ann Liguori, the well-known sports broadcaster, was seen carrying a first baseman's mitt while riding the subway between Quogue and Westhampton Beach on Monday. Hans Van de Bovenkamp, the famous sculptor who has a studio in Bridgehampton, caused a 10-minute delay in the service while trying to wrestle one of his nine-foot bronzes onto a subway car in Bridgehampton on Tuesday morning. He was taking it out to Montauk. Some of the other straphangers helped him push it in, though. Matt Lauer, in full cowboy gear, was seen on the subway heading from Noyac to North Sea on Wednesday afternoon. There was a pleasant smell of manure in that car for a while.

LAWSUIT FROM MISSING TRAIN

A lawsuit has been filed against Hamptons Subway for $200 million by a wealthy mergers and acquisition man who has insisted we leave his name out of the newsletter. His suit claims that Hamptons Subway advertised a 9:45 a.m. train pulling out of the station in Southampton headed for Water Mill, and he got there at that time, but the train was just pulling out and he was unable to get it to come back by yelling. As a result, he was unable to get to the closing of the AT&T/DIRECTV merger in time to participate in it, a fact that cost him the amount of the lawsuit. Our subway trains run at six-minute intervals and our train schedules are only for show, but our lawyers tell us that if we abandon distributing them now we will be liable double for what we owe this man, since abandoning the distribution shows guilt by association or something.

CONDUCTOR LOSES JOB BECAUSE OF WEDDING RING

Two weeks ago Thursday was Wedding Ring Thursday, when customers went to our headquarters building and identified wedding rings thrown in anger onto the tracks during the year. On Thursday, though, a Hamptons Subway whistleblower noticed that on the fourth finger of the left hand of the wife of one of our conductors, there was a diamond wedding ring that must have been worth a hundred thousand dollars, and it is well known this man, Carl Hassenraffer, does not have that kind of money. As a result, Hassenraffer has confessed to keeping the thrown ring and giving it to his wife and has resigned from the company. The whistleblower who will remain anonymous, will receive a $500 reward for turning Hassenraffer in.

ANOTHER HALLOWEEN PRANK

Hamptons Subway has been suffering a five-minute delay between East Hampton and Sag Harbor since maroon paint was found painted on the tracks for 100 yards by some person we do not know who might be a student at East Hampton High School. Maroon and white are the colors of that high school and on the day the paint appeared, the East Hampton High School football team was playing Southampton High School for the annual Hamptons Cup. Whatever this paint is sticks to both the tracks and the wheels, slows down the trains and so far we have not been able to get it off. Please excuse the delay.

COMMISSIONER ASPINALL'S MESSAGE

Two weeks from today is Thanksgiving Turkey Giveaway Day, when we give everybody passing through the turnstiles a 50-pound frozen turkey to take home whether they like it or not. I hope our ridership is more cooperative this year than it was last, when there was a dip in the ridership numbers by more than 60% that day as riders stayed home rather than accept this heavy gift. Come on, people. 🦃

BACON FIRE

Firefighters and emergency responders were called to Hamptons Police headquarters on Friday morning after a fire broke out in the department's bacon dispensary. The fire was quickly extinguished and nobody was seriously injured, although one officer was treated at the scene for excessive bacon consumption. According to department spokesman Larry Hirsch, the bacon losses were extensive but could have been a lot worse. "Right now, we have an unusually large quantity of bacon in the dispensary, so there's a big cushion there," Hirsch told reporters. This is due to the fact that the Hamptons Police recently moved to impound all of the bacon in local food stores, citing the newly proven cancer risk posed by the salty, cured pork product. When questioned as to why the confiscated bacon, weighing close to 5 tons, was still being stored at the department, Hirsch became somewhat defensive. "Originally, the department planned to dispose of the bacon immediately, but once we'd gone to the trouble of loading it all into the dispensary, we thought we'd hang onto it. After all, we recently upgraded our kitchens and Chief has a lot of new recipes he's looking to try." In fact, the bacon fire seems to have broken out when the Chief was experimenting with his recently acquired culinary torch, trying to make a flaming bacon garnish for his Bloody Mary.

BRIDGE CAPER

Perhaps because of the fact that the bridge on Bridge Lane in Bridgehampton and had just been sold to Sagaponack for $1 had just been reported in the local press, it didn't seem to phase motorists when they pulled up to the bridge on Monday morning to find that tollbooths had been erected on both sides of the crossing. These motorists were all charged $4 to cross the Bridge Lane bridge in either direction, and they apparently paid without complaint. In fact, nobody reported the tollbooths to the authorities at all—at 3 p.m., a Hamptons Police officer noticed the booths as he traveled on Bridge Lane in the course of his duties. It turns out that the booths had been quietly put in place overnight by Mervyn Zuschlag and accomplices unknown, and Zuschlag had amassed a small fortune by the time the con was shut down.

GOOD TIME TO PANIC

While authorities usually seek to quell the general alarm over the Friday the 13th, on this occasion have taken a different tack. From the news release: "While we ordinarily advise people to stay calm regarding the confluence of the 13th day of the month falling on a Friday, today we are instead urging people to fly into an unreasoning panic. It's a test of our emergency alarm system." 🐼

Southampton's First Presbyterian Church

Barbara Lassen

The Bells

An Opportunity to Fill Downtown Southampton with the Sound of Bells

BY DAN RATTINER

A few years ago, the Presbyterian Church of Southampton automated the beautiful bells that sound in their church belfry. As a result, the bells now sound once an hour, every hour, every day, cheerfully stating the time that is also visible on the hands of the clock that are up there on the church steeple. Prior to the automation, the ringing was more sporadic. It operated on a spring mechanism that sometimes got out of whack. So on occasion, there would be no bells until Mr. Corwin at Corwin Jewelers, a member of the congregation and a fixer of clocks, would climb the interior ladder to fix what was wrong.

If the Presbyterian Church now fills the southern end of Main Street with beautiful song, the Hamptons Methodist church does the same thing—beginning last year—at the northern end of Main Street, although just on Sundays, and just on occasion. A great 3,500-pound bell is up in the belfry of that church. Built around 1901, it filled this town with a cacophony of music until the Hurricane of 1938 caused damage to it, deterioration set in and, about 20 years ago, parishioners felt it was too dangerous to continue to use it.

The parishioners declared the bell broken. But then, last year, two men went up there and, with a block and tackle, a hydraulic jack and some hardwood, lifted the bell, replaced a cracked wooden harness that had jammed things up, and now it works. It's been sounding on Sundays at the pull of the rope from the room in the belfry just below the bell chamber. Some Sundays they do it, some they don't. But there it is.

Neither of these church bells can be heard down at Monument Square, however, which, down on Lake Agawam, provides the third point of a kind of triangle in downtown.

Then, this past spring, Mayor Epley of that village, together with others, proposed to put a clock tower in Agawam Park, just 50 feet from Monument Square. Many years ago, a former slave named Pyrrhus Concer lived in a little house on Pond Lane overlooking Agawam Park. The Mayor decided he wanted to save that little house. And he also wanted to re-create the little business that Concer ran during the last half of his life. In the summertime, Concer would ferry beachgoers across Lake Agawam from the park to a landing down near the Southampton

Bathing Association two miles away for a small fee. The Mayor, together with Nick Palumbo and others, created a ferry company for the effort and obtained a small boat that could be used for that purpose. And they put it into service for the first time, operated by the Village Marine Department, two summers ago. For this past summer, they ran the service from a wooden dock the Village built at the headwaters of the lake where it abuts the park. Just across the street is where Concer lived. The Village was re-creating history to honor Concer. And then the proposal was made to put a tower with a clock down by the dock. I think it got postponed for another time.

It seems to me that such a clock would be very appropriate for a ferry landing. It would show the time. And in my opinion, it also presents an opportunity for the village to provide a third place to fill the air with beautiful musical bells. The bells could be atop the clock.

One could walk around downtown in the summertime and almost anywhere hear the cheerful sounds of music as this beautiful village celebrates its heritage.

Five years ago, this would not have been possible. Now, at relatively small cost, it is. 🐾

Did Republican Helicopters Drop Leaflets During the Election Campaign?

BY DAN RATTINER

The biggest issue in local affairs this past summer was East Hampton Airport and the noisy helicopters and large jets coming in and out and driving people who live nearby crazy. They'd complain to the town, which owns the airport. Over the years, nothing happened. There were no restrictions at all. But then Larry Cantwell, a new town supervisor, came into office and this past April led the town board in putting ordinances into effect to limit the noise. In response, aircraft interests filed lawsuits to have the laws thrown out, but a judge refused to order a temporary injunction on most of them. The airport now closes for the night at 11 p.m. and reopens at 7 a.m. Loud aircraft of 91 decibels and over must wait until 9 a.m. to use the airport and then cannot use it after 8 p.m. These laws seem reasonable to most people and certainly never caused the economic downturn, bankrupt airlines and financial ruin the aircraft interests predicted.

Last week, however, Larry Cantwell and two of his loyal Democratic councilmen were up for re-election. And as it happened, the Republicans launched a tremendous election effort to get the evil Democrats out and get the more aircraft-friendly Republicans elected in their place.

The election is now over, but during that last-week run-up to the vote, The East Hampton Star reported that a group of people with ties to the aircraft industry had contributed an astonishing $200,000, which included paying for a very aggressive last-minute door-tag campaign to insure a Republican victory.

I don't know about the accuracy of this report, but I can tell you that at my house on Three Mile Harbor Road during the last eight days of the campaign, 12 Republican full-color campaign leaflets arrived not as door tags on my front doorknob, but as things that floated down from the sky onto my front lawn from just under a loud helicopter flying overhead. This helicopter never landed, so I guess it didn't need a permit. But I followed it with my eye and saw it hover further up my street, where more leaflets appeared from under it to float down onto the front lawns of my neighbors. This chopper, or one like it, came every morning during those last days, and on four of them also came by late in the afternoon for a second drop. The choppers made quite a racket doing all this.

I saved all these items, and I photographed them—see above—on the floor in my kitchen to let you see what got dropped. By the way, it was all to no avail. The Republican candidate for Supervisor, Tom Knobel, got severely trounced by Larry Cantwell, the evil incumbent who was causing all the trouble. Final vote was 3,611 for Cantwell and 1,715 for Knobel.

I think this effort backfired for the Republicans because what they are dealing with, in many cases, are the descendants of the original English settlers who arrived here in the 17th century, about the same time that other settlers were arriving in New England. We are a hardy lot. We fought for and won our independence. And what we say goes. $200,000—it just got kissed goodbye to no effect.

Here's what some of those leaflets—thick, two-sided museum quality, full-color affairs—said:

ELECT TOM KNOBEL EAST HAMPTON SUPERVISOR. "Develop an airport management plan that protects nearby residents' quality of life and also balances the needs of the airport operators and users"

1,000,000 REASONS AND COUNTING TO THROW THE CAREER POLITICIANS OUT. It's time to send career politicians like Cantwell, Van Scoyoc and Overby home!

DO YOU RENT? Prepare to be regulated, reviewed and registered. Larry Cantwell, Sylvia Overby and Peter Van Scoyoc have had years to pass such a law, but they've chosen to push ahead now. After the election, that is. YOU HAVE A CHOICE. VOTE KNOBEL*LARSEN*TURNER.

ON THE ISSUES, STEVE BELLONE HAS FAILED. Vote Jim O'Conner County Executive. A taxpayer who's had enough—just like you.

EAST HAMPTON DEMOCRATS TAKE CREDIT FOR AN AWFUL LOT...BUT TRUTHFULNESS ISN'T ON THE LIST. The truth is, we won't just claim to do it, we'll do it. Vote Tom Knobel for Supervisor and his Republican Team.

AMOS GOODMAN STANDS WITH EAST ENDERS, while Bridget Fleming's record speaks for itself. Choose Amos Goodman for Suffolk County Legislator.

WHO RAISED TAXES BY 12% AND SPENDING BY MILLIONS MORE? TOPIC CLUE: CAREER POLITICIAN HINT: BUY AN "E" Bridget Fleming. Bridget Fleming raised taxes by 12% and spending by millions more.

UBER AND OUT. Safety and convenience don't apparently mean much to bureaucrats like East Hampton Supervisor Larry Cantwell, who spearheaded new laws that effectively kept Uber cars off town streets this year, leaving patrons to wait long hours on public corners for cash-only cabs or risk driving home themselves. He even had 23 Uber drivers arrested to punctuate his "my way or the highway" approach to management. Tom Knobel: the Kind of Lift East Hampton Needs Now.

This last refers to the battle this past spring between Uber and the Town about the fact that Uber was not abiding by Town laws created to keep the taxicab business orderly. Uber behaved dishonorably, I believe, among other things by encouraging their nationwide user base to slam the Town with email and phone calls expressing their outrage. The Town arrested and gave summonses to some of the Uber drivers, including one who was sleeping in his car and another who could not pass a sobriety test.

Anyway, in fairness to the Republicans, I should also report that during this time I also got four election leaflets from the incumbent Democrats, but these did not arrive by helicopter. They got hand-delivered to my mailbox by a man on horseback who came galloping down Three Mile Harbor Road and leaned over in the saddle to deftly put the Democrat leaflets into my mailbox as he zipped by.

Hoof beats I can deal with. A helicopter racket I cannot.

As we say here in East Hampton, Live Free or Die.

Wait. That's the slogan for New Hampshire. Well, for us it's something like that.

Before departing this subject, I would like to say a few words about two other excellent local public officials in the news, both in Southampton.

Anna Throne-Holst, who served two strong terms as Southampton Town Supervisor, has decided not to run for a third term because she wants to go to Washington and become our new Congresswoman for the East End. She will challenge the incumbent, first-term Congressman Lee Zeldin, in 2016, when the next election comes up. Prior to Zeldin, Congressman Tim Bishop, a Southampton resident, held this office for a decade and everything was close at hand. Zeldin is from the west end of the district, a more populous area, an hour's drive away. We don't hear much about him out east. Throne-Holst would be a welcome voice again for the East End.

And then there is Jay Schneiderman, born and raised in Montauk, who served two terms as East Hampton Town Supervisor and then for more than a decade as our popular County Legislator. He could hands down win that post for the rest of his life if he wanted to, but there are term limits. And so now, living in Southampton Town, he's run for Southampton Town Supervisor, and with all that experience has just won that job.

Proven, experienced leaders are now in practically all the major government leadership positions on the East End, and I think we are in good hands. 🏠

The Summer Tourist Season in the Hamptons Expands to Four Months

BY DAN RATTINER

Last Friday afternoon, November 6, the temperature rose to 73° in Bridgehampton.

Besides the fact that there were people on blankets in bathing suits on the beaches, it was also quite a remarkable autumn day. Better yet, a summer's day.

So far, the high temperature for every day in the month of November has exceeded the high average for the month of November by more than ten degrees. It's wonderful. And I think it is possible to announce that my theory—which says our new beach weather summer season is no longer just July and August, but is in fact April to November—is finally beginning to start to play out as I predicted.

I've been thinking about this since February. You might recall that month. You probably would not like to recall that month. We had 72 feet of snow and the temperatures dipped to 30 below 0, or at least that's what it felt like. The facts were we had seven feet of snow and temperatures that got well below zero. It was the worst month of February in the last half-century and the average temperature was just 19.1 degrees—nearly 14 degrees below normal.

What I hoped at the end of the relatively balmy month of March (the temperature was just 7 degrees below normal) was that these low temperatures were piling up (January was 3 degrees below normal) and that we were so far down under what the winter was supposed to be that surely we would make it up during the rest of the year. The whole year average, after all, is the whole year average. It doesn't change. Yes, we are having Climate Change. Yes, the temperature is rising. But the average rise is just half a degree every 20 years. And here we were, just the first three months of 2015 and we had fallen behind this huge amount. All together, we lagged behind the average (January to December) year at that point 24 degrees just in the three months. That meant, to me anyway, we'd be making up those 24 degrees and maybe a smidgen more (for Climate Change) by New Years.

My theory, actually, was a hope. What would happen if the hotter weather making this up were not in July and August but in May and June and, in the fall, in September and October? Twenty-four degrees were at stake. It could come true if we were up six degrees during each of those spring and autumn months. And that would mean that the summer of 2015—I'm talking beach weather—would begin in May and last to the end of October. We'd have a six-month summer season.

Did it happen the way I had hoped? Well, no. But it has headed in the right direction. In total, we have, since last winter's monster weather, made up just 4 degrees of the 24 we needed to make up. And though the spring was nearly normal and so was the high summer of July and August, the full four-degree rise came in the fall, specifically in September.

This September, the average temperature for the month was amazing. There were days when it got above 80 at midday. It felt like summer.

In fact, the normal average for September is 64.5°. This September the average temperature was close to 70°. This average temperature was almost the same average as is the normal temperature of August (which is 71°.) We did, in fact, have a four-month summer season, from May 1 to October 1. Believe it.

And now we come to November. Did you put the beach chairs and lawn chairs away? Take them out. As I said, my theory is a hope. Let's have sunshine and have good weather right until December 25, when on the morning of Christmas Day, let it snow. I'm dreaming of a white Christmas.

MONSTER DRUG PRICES

I am a great believer in the American way of life. America is a land of opportunity. Work hard and you can become wealthy. Sit around and do nothing and you will live in poverty. It's your choice. It beats communism, where everybody makes the same. And it surely beats a dictatorship where just one guy makes everything and everybody else gets the crumbs.

On the other hand, there are ways of getting wealthy that are way out of line. Stealing is one. Running a scam is another. For those taking such shortcuts we have laws, regulators and jail sentences.

In recent months, we've learned that a few industrious people have become billionaires by buying the rights of old but effective

A few industrious people have become billionaires by buying the rights of old but effective medications and jacking up the price.

medications that have been selling for a dollar a pill and jacking up the price to several thousand dollars a pill. Turns out there are no regulations preventing someone from doing this. You don't even have to know anything about the pharmaceutical business. All you have to do is assemble a large amount of money from investors, create what appears to be an international pharmaceutical company—but is, it seems, just one that buys underpriced rights—and jack up the price to the sick.

You might suggest that all a patient has to do is buy a different drug that does the same thing. But that's the key. These new billionaires are only interested in drugs that have no known competitors. The patient needs that drug. If it fits the model, it is a drug that he must have to live. He will pay anything for it. And if he can't, he will find friends or family to help him. And if that is not possible, he will die.

Here are just a few examples of drugs that have had sudden dramatic price increases. Daraprim, used to fight malaria and other protozoal infections, went from $13.50 to $70 a tablet. (Its company is Turing Pharmaceuticals.) Cycloserine, used for Tuberculosis, went from $500 for 30 capsules to $10,800 for 30 capsules (Rodelis Therapeutics). The antibiotic Doxycycline went from $20 a bottle to $1,849 a bottle (Valeant Pharmaceuticals.) Others are Isuprel, Nitropress, Cuprimine, Glumetra, Sypriane and Mephyton (Valeant Pharmaceuticals). Not surprisingly, the price of the stocks of Turing, Rodelis and Valeant went through the roof.

Congress has opened an investigation about these pricing changes. Recently, Martin Shkreli, the head of Turing, appeared before them. So did J. Michael Pearson of Valeant, who in another forum said, "I have a duty to shareholders to wring the maximum profit out of each drug."

As a result of the publicity, some of these price increases have been rescinded. And with them, related stock prices have gone back down. Already there are articles in the media about these new billionaires who should be arrested and charged with endangering the lives of the sick.

But read how it's handled in the business sections of newspapers and websites. It has nothing to do with sick people. It's all about the money. Here's how the New York Post handled it on October 16, in the story titled HEDGIES POWERLESS AS THEIR PORTFOLIOS GO IN THE TANK.

"Case in point is Ackman's 5.7% stake in Canadian pharmaceutical giant Valeant, which announced late Wednesday that it is under investigation by federal prosecutors in New York and Massachusetts regarding its pricing of drugs."

I am a great believer in the American way of life. America is a land of opportunity. Work hard and you can become wealthy.

The poor man has lost nearly $600 million in the last month or so as the price of the stock dropped.

We don't need any investigations. Thirty countries regulate the price of drugs. We don't. We need a bill passed. The Republicans, most of whom are of an age where they have to take pills, won't object. Democrats won't object. The pharmaceutical companies that don't gouge won't object. And the public won't object. Everyone says Congress can't pass anything. Here's one situation that everyone can share in solving. 🐷

This Week's Cover Artist: Joseph Reboli

BY JOAN BAUM

HONORING THE ARTIST

The late Joseph Reboli's luminescent oil painting on this week's cover, featuring pumpkins against a dramatic fall sunset, brings to mind all that the East End has to offer this season.

Reboli, who died in 2004, left behind more than 3,000 paintings. His devoted widow, Lois, herself an artist and longtime art teacher at Southampton Elementary School, has become the keeper of Joe's flame and the founder of a center and a studio in his honor. These collections will showcase his work and also serve as focal points for other artists, art education and related cultural activities.

Reboli was a master colorist who evolved over the years from Wyeth-like subdued, textured compositions to depicting en plein air scenes that glow with warmth and light.

Though Lois paints, she modestly says that Joe "was the real artist in the family," a talented painter who was also a "good man, comfortable in his own skin." The Joseph Reboli Wet Paint Festival he founded is in its 11th year at Gallery North in Setauket, the first gallery that exhibited his work.

Joseph Reboli studied at the Paier School of Art (now Paier College of Art) in Connecticut, a small, private four-year institution whose mission is to graduate "literate artists." How did study at Paier affect him?

Lois Reboli says: "Paier was founded by artists from Yale who specialized in realistic painting and believed in knowing the basics—techniques, mixing colors, drawing. Among Joe's teachers at Paier was the noted American realist, Ken Davies, a meticulous painter whose exacting work is often likened to photographs, trompe l'oeil and surrealism. He was a great influence on Joe who worked with Davies on a project for the White House Historical Association in 1999. Davies asked Joe how he was able to complete a painting so quickly and Joe said, 'Don't you remember that every time we got in trouble in school our punishment was to complete a painting in three hours? I got in trouble a lot.'"

Why did you inaugurate The Friends of Joseph Reboli organization in Stony Brook?

Lois Reboli says: "The mission of The Friends is 'to collect, preserve and exhibit artwork, documents and artifacts' about Joe. I'm in the process of ordering his work contained in many, many slides of his paintings, establishing categories and chronology with the help of many good friends. Quite recently, with the aid of a small grant and generous donations from friends, we signed a contract to take over an empty bank building in Stony Brook. It's directly across the street from where Joe was born and raised—all the stars must be aligned! But The Friends is not all about Joe. We will also be working with cultural institutions in the Stony Brook area and exploring the university's special collections on Long Island history. Having an educational component, as well as a history component would have been important to Joe—he wanted to encourage and support local artists and to offer classical art training to both children and adults. When the Reboli Atelier opens in St. James in January, with Kevin McEvoy as director, we will also be presenting art shows and musical events. 🍂

Joseph Reboli's work will be on display the weekend of November 13–14 when The Reboli Center of Art and History holds its grand opening in Stony Brook. The Reboli Atelier will open in January 2016 at Flowerfield in St. James. For more information, visit rebolicenter.com.

The East End Is Simply the Best (of the Best!)

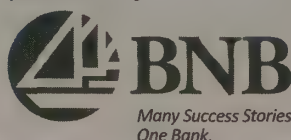

What does it take to be the best? In the Hamptons and on the North Fork, it takes a particular dedication to excellence, a desire to deliver the best of everything to a discerning group of residents and visitors alike who love the East End. Dan's Papers has always celebrated the best of the Hamptons and the North Fork, and nowhere is that celebration bigger than in our annual Dan's Best of the Best competition.

The 2015 Dan's Best of the Best, presented by Bridgehampton National Bank (BNB), drew a massive turnout of voters sharing their picks for who should be honored among the best businesses, personalities and events on the East End. With 1,500-plus nominees vying for recognition in some 250 categories, it was you, the Dan's Papers readers, who told us who you think are tops. In addition, new honorees are being inducted into the Dan's Best of the Best Hall of Fame.

"This is an amazing community of entrepreneurs and business people who are passionate about what they do," says Kevin O'Connor, President and CEO, Bridgehampton National Bank. "Dan's Best of the Best highlights our local businesses and celebrates the people behind them as well as the products and services they deliver consistently, at a high quality and with great enthusiasm. As the local community bank, BNB is honored to stand beside all of these local businesses and applaud their success."

This year we have awarded Platinum, Gold, Silver and Bronze level honors to the top vote-getters in each category on both the North Fork and the South Fork. In many cases the voting was neck-and-neck right down to the wire, and in the end some races were so close that we had to call a few ties. Of course, to borrow a phrase, everyone who takes home an award certificate is a winner.

Every one of those winners is invited to come collect those coveted certificates during one of the great traditions of the Best of the Best competition—the annual awards celebration. For the third year in a row, the event will be held at the historic Suffolk Theater in Riverhead, and the party promises to be an evening to remember, a night of food and drink and plenty of congratulations. And, of course, the presentation of the Best of the Best awards, which winners can proudly display for all to see in their windows, on their walls, in advertisements or wherever they decide—each year we're surprised at how creative some of the winners get.

But the fun doesn't end there. Following the awards party will be the annual Dan's Papers Best of the Best Concert, this year featuring not just one but two East End favorites—and Best of the Best winners—as the bands Just Groovin' and Somethin' Fresh take the stage.

And now, without further ado, here are YOUR Best of the Best choices for 2015!

Tickets for Dan's Papers Best of the Best Concert on Friday, November 13, at 7:30 p.m. at Suffolk Theater in Riverhead are $25 for general admission ($35 at the door). Visit DANSBOTB.com to purchase tickets.

If you see that you have won an award this year and would like to attend the event, please contact allison@danspapers.com.

Our comprehensive eye exam goes beyond 20/20, learning how our patient uses their eyes to gather, process and integrate their vision.

Common Symptoms of Vision Disorders:

- Blurred or double vision
- Squinting/ eye rubbing
- Dizziness/nausea after reading
- Head tilting
- Closing or covering an eye
- Avoidance of near work (books, schoolwork)
- Frequent loss of place
- Omits, inserts or re-reads words
- Poor reading comprehensive
- Smart in everything but school

Drs. D'Angelo and Fulmer specialize in vision therapy, a specialty type of eye care that works to improve a patient's overall visual function. If you or your child experience any of these symptoms, a full evaluation is recommended!

Congratulations, Best of the Best Hall of Famers!

For more than two decades, outstanding East End businesses, venues, events, performers and more have received the designation of Dan's Papers Best of the Best. Over the years some businesses and individuals have won this title numerous times, and a few continue to dominate their categories every year.

Starting in 2014, with its inaugural class of eight inductees, Dan's Papers instituted the Dan's Best of the Best Hall of Fame to pay specific homage to those who continue to rise to the top of the list every year (to qualify for the Hall of Fame, you must have won 10 times in the past and be willing to not compete in your category again). This year Dan's Papers is delighted to induct three more inductees that we feel truly represent what it takes to be in the company of the best of the Best of the Best.

Congratulations to Alexander J. Covey M.D., F.A.A.C.S. (Best Cosmetic & Laser Treatments, Wellness & Beauty, South Fork), Crescendo Designs (Best Audio/Video, Professional Services, South Fork) and Mildew Busters (Mold Inspection/Removal, Home Services, North Fork). Welcome to the Dan's Papers Best of the Best Hall of Fame! 🎉

Delfiore Italian Pork Store's Expanding Legacy

BY STACY SANTINI

At Carmine Galeotafiore's Delfiore Italian Pork Store in the village of Patchogue you'll often see lines out the door, as loyal customers wait for a turn at the counter. Galeotafiore is always pleased to answer questions about his impeccably prepared food—in his delightfully thick Italian accent. Carmine, born and raised in a small town north of Naples, founded the store in 1971, which is now managed by his son Lorenzo. It is clear that their work is also their passion. Carmine tells us all about it.

When did you come to the United States?

I came to Brooklyn when I was in my early twenties, in the late 1960s. I had friends who already came here from Italy and were living well and making a living. The economy in Italy can be tough. My wife, Lucia, is also from Italy, a village called Contursi. Her brother was my friend. We fell in love when she visited us in Brooklyn and decided this was where we wanted to raise a family.

I learned from the best. I got a job at A&S Pork Store in Massapequa and, under the guidance of old-school pork purveyors, I learned my trade. They taught me how to make homemade mozzarella and sausage.

What is the history of Delfiore Italian Pork Store?

I listened and worked hard for a couple of years at A&S and then went out on my own and by the age of 25 I opened my store, Delfiore. It was 1971 and we had a place on South Ocean Avenue in Patchogue. In 1985, I bought a building up the street and expanded to where we are now. My son, Lorenzo is amazing and helps me run the place today and you will usually find one of us here. It is a true family business.

What type of products do you make and sell?

We are known for our homemade mozzarella, which we make daily, and for our fresh pork sausages. Over the years our expertise has grown to include dry sausage, soppressata, fresh pastas, prime meats and all the imported Italian goods you can imagine. My son, Angelo, who now has his own pizzeria/restaurant around the corner on Main Street went to the Culinary Institute of America. When he worked here he started making prepared foods to sell, like lasagna, eggplant parmigiana, meatballs, sauces, roasted peppers and broccoli rabe. We make unbelievable sandwiches with the freshest hearth-baked bread, which we have delivered daily from city bakeries.

Which of your housemade sausages is your favorite?

All of them! Now, if you ask my son Lorenzo, he will tell you that he loves the hot sausages. They are spicy enough where you can feel the heat but not too spicy that you can't taste anything else. We do not use any fillers in our sausages, no gluten, none of that stuff. We only use fresh pork, they are the real thing and they are all delicious.

What makes Patchogue a special place?

Paolo Amato and Angelo Delfiore

Oh, Patchogue is a great town. We have been here through everything. It was booming when we got here, the 1970s and '80s, and then it was on a down swing up until about a decade ago, and things were not so terrific. Now the energy is amazing again; it is coming back up for sure. It has great restaurants and nightlife and a very active arts movement, but for me the best thing about Patchogue is the people. They are so real, so genuine. Especially as a business owner—there is a core group of us that is extremely supportive of one another. It is just a great community. Delfiore has been here for over 40 years and it is going to stay.

Singer Odell Comes Home November 15

BY STACY DERMONT

This Sunday, November 15, Sag Harbor native, singer-songwriter Raphael Odell Shapiro, will open the annual Edna's Kin concert at Christ Church. Every year since 2007 family band Edna's Kin has donated a concert to Christ Episcopal Church (CEC) of Sag Harbor to benefit the church's Pipe Organ Restoration Fund. Edna's Kin member and CEC Minister of Music, Dr. Daniel Koontz, plays the pipe organ there every Sunday at 10 a.m.

Shapiro, fulfilling the very definition of an up-and-coming singer-songwriter, resides in Brooklyn; often tours in a well-traveled Honda CR-V and mixes folk, country and soul. He recently released an EP, Tre Subar, under the name "Odell," which he recorded in Brooklyn and which is now available for download on Bandcamp.

Local audiences will remember Shapiro for his many performances with Stages Children's Theater Workshop, including his portrayal of the Wolfman in Stages' annual October production of The Frankenstein Follies. He was also cast in professional productions of Our Town and Pippin at Bay Street Theater. Shapiro graduated from the Ross School in East Hampton in 2008.

Here's a snippet of lyrics from Shapiro's single "Monster."

"Grass is getting caught between my claws now, darlin'. Cold blood is pumpin' through my veins... And I'm howlin' out your name..."

Did the experience of portraying the Wolfman in any way inform your original song "Monster?"

There is a sort of kinship. Frankenstein Follies gave me my first opportunity to sort of flex my rock star persona muscles. It's great to give kids power.

Will the November 15 concert at Christ Church be your first professional turn as a singer-songwriter in your hometown?

Yes, except for busking on Main Street when I was a teenager. It was pretty fun—I got a lot of good feedback. I performed at Christ Church with The Duke's Men of Yale in 2009.

What songs might we hear on November 15?

Mostly originals from my new EP. I don't have a set list yet. I do covers that include arrangements of soul and R&B. You might hear the traditional tune "The Blackest Crow." I'm very excited about playing with Edna's Kin. We may close the show together with "Angel Band."

Who are some of your heroes in the folk world?

Bob Dylan, of course, Neil Young, Leonard Cohen. More contemporarily—Rosh Ritter, Joe Pug, Laura Marling.

You've spent several summers working at an arts camp in Alaska and your video for "Monster" was filmed there. How has your time in Alaska influenced you creatively?

The mountains and the water are magical. So many people are drawn to it—like they are to the Hamptons. In addition to nature—the community there is very, very supportive of artists and the arts.

Do you audition for shows these days?

Not right now. I love theater and it informs my performances as a musician—but it's been great that, for the last couple of years, I've been able to focus on music. I'm playing a lot to get better, meeting lots of people, seeing what sticks.

What were some of your favorite things about growing up on the East End?

I really took it for granted. When I came back over during college I realized what an amazing place it is—how beautiful and special the community is. I'm still close to a lot of childhood friends—I know they'll all come back some time because they love it too.

Raphael Odell Shapiro opens for Edna's Kin at Christ Church, Sunday, November 15 at 2 p.m. Advance tickets $20 (students $10) from Canio's Books, 290 Main Street, Sag Harbor 631-725-4926. All tickets at the door will be $25. Christ Episcopal Church, 4 East Union Street, Sag Harbor. 631-725-0128.

Support a local artist by checking out Van Der Muffin's Jewels (vandermuffinsjewels.com), a line started by self-taught, emerging jewelry artisan Courtney Andrea Fox, born and raised in Southampton. Everything is completely handmade. Fox creates all of her pieces with the creative inspiration from her most loyal confidante, a 9-year-old English Labrador Retriever named Feisty Tiger Sloane Van Der Muffin. She specializes in using semi precious gemstones, freshwater pearls, precious metals and unusual vintage gems.

Speaking of waistlines, fall and winter don't mean the end of outdoor exercising—especially out here in the Hamptons—they just mean more mud and moisture will be involved. Keep your muddy, sweaty gear away from your nice, clean clothes and gear and organize your small items so they're easy to find with one of Eagle Creek's Pack-It Sport Bags (eaglecreek.com).

Looking for a tasty Hamptons holiday gift? Check out Hamptons Wine Club at hamptonswineclub.com, now offering their HWC Tasting Room, an introductory sampler of four bottles of Long Island wine for only $39 plus shipping! You can't beat that—you could pay that much for four glasses of wine! Drink up.

On the beauty front, affordable favorite eos (Whites Pharmacy, 81 Main Street East Hampton; $3.99–$6.49) has launched a new line of body lotions packaged in a sleek curvaceous bottle. Each has a light, refreshing scent that works for both genders and absorbs quickly for non-greasy long, lasting hydration.

For something a little more personal, checkout Luz de la Riva (LuzdeLaRiva.com). With the heightened awareness around the progressive advancements in women's sexual health on the rise, the brand was created to celebrate women feeling safe, sexy and secure all the time, starting with their beauty routine. Each product in the line is multi-functional. Among their most popular buys are their Stella Massage Oil. Available in a variety of different scents, it's made with all-natural ingredients. Their Lulu 24K Organic Kissable Massage Oil is made with edible 24K Gold Flakes and natural pheromones. The fun packaging also makes the line a great option for a gift.

Lastly, if dark spots are starting to creep onto your face as a result of your summer activities, Clarins has introduced an innovative serum that works to even out skin tone. The main causes of the appearance of dark spots are exposure to the sun, hormonal imbalances and inflammatory reactions that lead to the overproduction of melanin. The effects of external aggressors, such as UV rays and pollution cause the skin to undergo various changes, which reduce its capacity to reflect light. The complexion therefore loses its fresh, youthful look and becomes dull (not a look anyone wants!). Mission Perfection Serum (clarins.com; $72) works to restore the "right" cellular messages to visibly diminish the look of hyperpigmentation. Give yourself four weeks to start seeing results.

Get your hair ready for the holidays at Southampton's John Dillon Salon & Day Spa. The studio is offering a number of specials for the month of November, including discounts on facials, blowouts, coloring, massages, body treatments, Keratin and nails. Call 631-283-8383 or visit John Dillon at 16 Hill Street, Southampton for additional information on the pricing and packages.

On the beauty front, East End regular Essie has just released their winter collection (essie.com, $8.50 each). Included are Haute Tub (jet black with amethyst), Virgin Snow (icy lavender), Peak Show (powder pink), Shall We Chalet? (ruby), Après-Chic (platinum), and Altitude Attitude (scarlet).

For the simplest pre-holiday pick-me-up, Simply Gum (simplygum.com) is the world's first clean chewing gum. Turns out most gums are filled with chemicals including some of the same components used to manufacture rubber tires, plastic bottles and glue! Simply Gum is made with no more than six all-natural ingredients and none of their products have artificial flavoring, preservatives, or aspartame. 🍬

"Entertaining" New Cookbook

BY STACY DERMONT

Philanthropist Annie Falk's new cookbook Hamptons Entertaining, Creating Occasions to Remember (Stewart, Tabori & Chang, 2015) with photos by Jerry Rabinowitz is a delight to read but it's also about saving our bays and waterways. How does that work? The author's proceeds from the book benefit Peconic Baykeeper, the nonprofit dedicated to the protection and improvement of the aquatic ecosystems of Long Island's Peconic and South Shore estuaries. In fact, there's a list of over 80 impaired waterways right at the beginning of this book. Some of the listings may surprise you: they include Georgica Pond, Mecox Bay and Sag Harbor Cove.

But the great recipes are no surprise when you consider their sources—some of the East End's top chefs, interpreted by Falk. Falk has a background in corporate event planning and she studied with the legendary chef Roger Vergé in Provence.

As Sag Harbor's Eric Ripert writes in the book's foreword, "The spirit of entertaining is really about giving back—being appreciative for what you have and wanting to share it. Annie Falk conveys her appreciation for the Hamptons culture and dedication to its natural beauty through her philanthropic efforts."

How "local" is it? Very. The recipes feature many seasonal ingredients and local produce including

Dale & Bette's mesclun salad mix from their Sag Harbor farm, East Hampton's Iacono Farms poultry and all manner of local seafood. Contributors include many friendly faces like Race Lane's Jay Plumeri, Water Mill's Joan and George Hornig and Cyril Fitzsimons of Cyril's Fish House.

With over 80 recipes, there's sure to be something delicious calling you to indulge while you help to save our local waterways. Chicken Paprikas in a Crepe Pouch and Pumpkin-Spiced Crème Brûlée, anyone? 🍽️

STORIES

Tales of childhood spent on East End.

The New Landscape of the Hamptons

BY OLIVER PETERSON

By the time a person reaches middle age, there will be, without a doubt, past regrets, whether it's lost love, missed career opportunities, poor investments or painful mistakes with far-reaching repercussions. And like that failed job interview or the beautiful and brilliant girl who got away, certain homes—the ones we sold, the ones we never bought, the foreclosures, the ones lost in a bitter divorce—can come back to haunt us, forever living in the hidden recesses of our hearts, whispering, "You belonged with me, and now I'm gone for good."

A home can have that effect. After all, it's where we lay our heads, conceive our children, make long lasting memories and live so many life-defining moments. Often it's the place we take our last breath, creating another reason for our survivors to hold onto the property for dear life.

Not long ago, one of those special homes resurfaced for me in East Hampton, and the price quickly set aflame any lingering fantasy that it might once again be mine. Then again, the listing, with its immaculate renovations, large swimming pool, manicured lawn and chic interiors—nothing to betray years of real family life—made clear that what I so badly want is long gone.

My childhood "country house" on Egypt Lane was a magical place. It was, before my family moved to the Hamptons full time when I was 10, our refuge on weekends, holidays and throughout the summer months. It was the last place my mother and since-deceased father had a marriage with promise and no expiration date, at least in my young eyes. It was the first of my two childhood homes to be sold. We lived in a succession of houses after that—none lasting long enough to really be called "home."

Selling it was the first sign that my father's once rock-solid financial security was beginning to crack. It was the end of an era.

And what an era it was.

The Egypt Lane house stood atop a hill overlooking an expansive grass "green," where I learned to ride a bike and my two older brothers, father and I frequently played ball. It was an amazingly short ride to East Hampton Village and just steps from the Duck Pond, which became our secret world—especially for my brothers, who would venture far off the trails, build forts and come home covered head to toe in black muck.

The house had a towering blue spruce in front and two cedars with a rope hammock suspended between them in back—all of them now gone. It had grapevines and a vegetable garden from which my mother would pick asparagus and make grape jelly and green tomato relish. These are also gone.

Today, the backyard is nothing but grass and a brick patio surrounding the pool. The old, cobweb-infested garage and our dusty clubhouse behind it are covered in impeccable shingles and lined with well-watered flowers. I expect the inside is refinished and no longer furnished with a few old street signs, a workbench and roughly constructed wood table, as it once was.

Even the land behind the property has changed. Expensive houses now cover the landscape where we once had BB gun wars. Well-defined property lines have replaced the (Continued on next page) fields and woods that were on the path to Mr. Frankel's property, where we'd trespass and admire his unique statuary in a clearing we called the "idol place."

What exists on Egypt Lane today is something very different from the home we sold for $400,000 in 1986. The structure is mostly the same outside, thanks to historic preservation rules, but somehow, a luxury $6.2 million house has taken the place of our relatively modest, though perfectly located, family home.

It's like the land here in the Hamptons has grown up with me, becoming more complicated and busy and expensive and difficult. It's well dressed and clean but sadly missing the innocence and freedom of a time that's impossible to get back. 🐾
